EZRA CORNELIUS POTTER

Platter

P R E F A C E

The Potter records contained in this book are the result of more than the third of a century of gathering and saving what material came to hand in pictures, letters, interviews and search in genealogical libraries. A little help was also obtained from genealogists in Boston. All the pictures were saved that could be obtained by gift, loan or with the camera. It is a matter of regret that more cannot be here included.

The above paragraph and the last one on this page were used in 1927 in the Barden Blue Book and are equally true of the Potter lineage which was being written concurrently and the author hopes to bring out the Adams, Evans, Baker records in 1934.

It has been the author's privilege as a motherless boy to live with numbers of these Potters and visit and get records from scores of them. About 1872 to 1876 with Cornelius No. 9 and Hannah Barber Potter at Owego, N. Y. Their full page pictures are given. Several of their children gave the author a home and intimate counsel later. S. M. Potter No. 40 in Smith Co. Kan. about 1878 to 1880 and even then records were being secured. Acknowledgment and thanks are due those above mentioned and to J. Q. Potter No. 37 - To Paul A. Potter No. 186, Agricultural Editor of the Chicago Tribune and John L. Barber No. 66 and his sister Emily E. Barber Long No. 62 - To Belle Ostrander Poundstone No. 101 and Delmer E. No. 439, and Edward H. Zimmer No. 490 and to others. Fourteen families have from 15 names herein to over 100 as follows, Potters 104, Zimmers 51, Barbers 60, Clarks, Kenyons, Roberts, Ostrandors and Blends, 25 and over. Giles, Hutchisons, Longs, Poundstones and Tombaughs, 15 and over, and two hundred other family names are here recorded.

The following section of an ancestral chart is included to illustrate an excellent method of keeping records. There are several forms one other being the Connecticut fan chart. This square form where each column is a generation and with available pictures inserted as above, is in the best position to see and understand.

I would like to urge upon thinking people generally that they make and preserve the records of all the older members of their families for every old person carries a fund of family history that will be lost to their descendants if not made into a record of permanent form, and these records will be much sought after by future generations. The publishing of family records is a rather thankless task and a matter of expense because of the limited sales, but to my mind a better tribute of honor and respect than shafts of marble. Hence this labor of love and devotion that these records of the Potter pioneers may be handed down to succeeding generations.

Ames, Iowa, Dec. 1, 1933

EEBA CORNELIUS POTTER.

It is significant that an up-to-date genealogy of the descendants of Esack Potter should be published during one of the worst depressions. So far as I can determine no Potter ever flinched at hardships nor was lacking in ability to make the most of existing conditions. The example of our forebears being able to adjust themselves to facilities at hand is repeated constantly in the lives of those here recorded. I think my father has shown it just as much in the manner in which this book is printed as did those who hewed timbers for pioneer lumber and grist mills and homes in the hills and plains of ever new country.

The amount of work entailed in a compilation such as this is not readily apparent to one unfamiliar with how few records are kept by busy American families. I know this to be the fulfillment of the ambitions of a 'teen age boy, who through half a century or more has been accumulating bits of information before they could be sealed beneath some grave and lost. I have watched this constant gathering of data for as long as I can remember. And it is with considerable satisfaction that those of us who have watched the material being assembled now are able to congratulate father upon the dedication of the finished record. It may well be regarded as the trunk and branches of the Potter tree with provision for new twigs to be added in future years.

Paul A. Potter

A goodly number of many of these families have been teachers. The Ostranders, Barbers, Clarks, Zimmers, and Potters have had their pedagogues. The H. F. & E. R. families had several, E. C. Potter No. 76 taught Pattern Work at Iowa State College at Ames from 1891 to 1932. Clyde W. Tombaugh No. 287 discovered the new planet Pluto as shown in the circular outline in the last page of pictures. Notes from Clyde are included as follows:

Lowell Observatory
Flagstaff, Arizona
March 31, 1931

I want to thank you for your congratulations. The British are surely fine sports to award me with so beautiful a medal.

My work is very interesting, but, of course, gets tiresome at times - so much night work and also eyework examining plates. I photograph stars with the "13 inch Lawrence Lowell Telescope" as faint as magnitude 17.1 in an hour's time. Stars of mag. 17.1 are approximately 26,000 times fainter than the faintest stars visible to the naked eye. The number of stars of such faint magnitudes run into the millions. I have examined a few million star images on my plates already and the search work is far from finished yet. I study Mars and the Moon some on the side thru the large 24-inch refractor we have here, but cannot spare enough time for it as I should like. Mars is a very fascinating planet to study because it exhibits phenomena which cannot be explained unless we assume life exists there. It is especially interesting to watch the slow melting of its polar caps, and the changing tints due to seasonal change over various parts of the disc.

With best wishes,

Your Cousin,

The Potters continuously exemplify the virtues and the genius which founded and preserved the Republic, nor has the lapse of years wrought degeneration of the blood. From the Potter who sat on the Commission of the English Commons that condemned Charles I. in 1648, to the Potter who vindicated the honor of the Supreme Bench at the bar of the New York Legislature in 1870, the same lofty and invincible spirit has animated those who bear the name.

The origin of the family is lost in the twilight of mediaeval England; but those who are curious in such matters may trace in the coat-of-arms its common descent with the Earls of Leicester, and the earliest records that exist testify to the esteem in which its representatives were held. In the long succession of generations it were doubtless possible to find unworthy sons. It is not given to all men to be great, and all men do not choose to be good. But the compiler of this history will be disappointed if it does not justify and stimulate an honest pride in the name of Potter among those who bear it; if it does not disclose in the lives of their ancestors and their brethren a constant exemplification of those qualities of mind and heart which dignify and best adorn humanity, and if the contemplation of such examples past and present does not encourage their imitation in the future.

The family and name are doubtless of Norman origin. In Ferguson's "Teutonic Name System applied to the Family Names of France, England, and Germany," respecting the name Potter he says: "It has been remarked that names derived from trades are more common in France than in England. I should rather say that it is the termination in er which is more common, and that among a multitude of names with this termination, there are many which accidentally coincide with names of trades. . . . We have in almost all cases, both in French and English, names which contain the roots, and names which form other compounds. Regarded from this point of view, French and English names mutually throw great light upon each other. When I doubt whether Potter means a maker of pots, it very much strengthens my suspicion to find not only a French Pottier, but also Poterie, with a corroborative termination."

If the various families of Potters who settled in this country were connected at all, it was probably remotely in their ancestry in the mother country, coming as they did from widely remote localities. It may be, however, that the families of George, Nathaniel, and Robert Potter, of Portsmouth, R. I., were nearly related: it is easily inferred that such was the case, from various facts, but no records of such relationship have been discovered. It has also been stated by some historians that Anthony Potter, of Ipswich, was a son of the Robert Potter, of Lynn, who subsequently settled in Portsmouth, R. I. There does not seem to be any record to make this certain. The name Anthony was a family name, and suggests that his mother may have been an Anthony, as the families of Anthony and Potter were connected. Robert Potter's sister was the wife of John Anthony, etc. In 1834, eight of the name Potter had graduated at Yale, three at Harvard, and nine at other New England colleges. The census of 1774 shows in Rhode Island, Potters, 589 (probably many of these were slaves), in a total population of 54, 460.

To make a record of the descendants of any one of these families to the present time, extending as it does over a period of more than two hundred and fifty years, and to make such a record tolerably complete, is a matter attended with much difficulty. As much as could be obtained from imperfect records, and that which has come from various other sources, are recorded. That the early settlers in many cases are not directly connected with English ancestry is readily explained by the experience of Samuel Gardner Drake, as given in his "Founders of New England":--

"Whoever goes to England expecting to find the genealogy of any particular family settled in America at an early date, is pretty sure, in at least nine cases out of ten, to meet with disappointment. The reason of this uncertainty is easily explained. In the first place, persons who emigrate are not often possessors of real estate, and hence deeds and wills seldom furnish indications referable to them; they leave no deeds or wills in the fatherland by which they can be traced. In the next place, very few emigrants from England were landholders, for the reason that for ages little or no land has been for sale in quantities within the reach of persons of moderate estates. As the great body of emigrants to New England took no pains to transmit to their descendants any account of their ancestors, or even the places whence they came, it is pretty evident they had nothing to expect from the one, or any special regard for the other."

The tabular delineations of the genealogies are placed by themselves in the first part of the history of each family, unencumbered by any extraneous references.

Under the names of the parents are given the names of the children in each family, the place and the date of birth, date of death, date of marriage, and the name and parentage of the wife or husband, with the year of birth and death. Each name is given a line by itself, and all names are numbered consecutively, the consecutive number being afterward affixed to the name wherever it reappears in the tables. An advantage of this system of tabulation is that all of the above-named particulars that are known concerning any individual may be seen at a glance while the blank spaces left in the table show as plainly and concisely just what is lacking in the record. In these blank spaces the names or dates missing may be written, if they are ever discovered, or in the case of persons now living the record of the facts of the marriage and death may be inserted as they occur.

The numbers are the serial line where the name will be found. Note man and wife have the same number. See last item quoted from Potter Genealogy by Chas. R. Potter, 1886.

J. Q. Potter - Civil War record

Enlisted in Co. A 2nd Iowa Cavalry at Davenport, Iowa under Col. Hatch, on the 12th of August, 1861. In camp at Davenport till a week before Christmas. Then went into camp at St. Louis, Mo. In Feb. of 1862 took prisoners of Inc 10. Had orders to go to New Madrid. Lay seige to the fort but they evacuated after spiking the guns. Ordered to Ft. Pillow and lay seige to the Fort. Orders came to go back about 10 rivers and reinforce Gen. Grant, arrived at Ft. Pillow same time Gen. Buell did after the battle. Took the front through to Corinth, Miss. Went into camp at Farmington, Miss. Had numerous scrimages with Gen. Forest. Went out on the Memphis and Charleston R. R. Lay at Farmington while Gen. Grant formed his army around the town of Corinth, and with a daily skirmish between the army and the Confederates, the Confederate army evacuated. The Confederates at Booneville took a good many prisoners. Paroled the sick and wounded.

Our headquarters remained at Farmington patrolling the country as far as HOLA Springs, Miss. It was very hot and the troops had the Chronic Diarrhea badly. Camp at Riensey on the Mobile and Charleston R. R. Hospitals full of sick and wounded, many of the troops are sent back home on sick leave of absence. We patrolled the country as far as Coffeeville south, and Tuba east, Memphis, Tenn. north and the troops were improving in health. As the fall of 1862 arrived Gen. Forest watched us closely while we watched him. Our Colonel, John Elliott of the 4 regulars goes East with Gen. Pota as his chief of staff. John I. Potter was wounded in his right knee accidentally, flesh wound only. Kept on constant patrol and scouting for camp near Memphis, Tenn. for the winter. We were constantly out after small bands of Confederates. The horses had mud fever badly and we had to do picket duty on foot. The hospitals were full of the sick and wounded.

This winter brought a supply of new recruits from home. We had to drill these new men when in camp. We patrolled the streets of Memphis daily and sometimes at night. We were often out in a raid over in Mississippi or some other state. Drilled the recruits and searched the country during the winter of '62 and '63. In the early spring with horses in fair condition started raiding the country. The spring of 1863 found the regiment in poor shape for the raiding. Gen. Forest cut around us and raided HOLA Springs and burned and destroyed hospital supplies stored there for Gen Grant's advance on Vicksburg. We guarded the front near Jackson, Miss. while Gen. Grant started down the river. We were to burn and destroy north of Jackson. We burned thousands of dollars worth of corn and many head of hog cured for bacon. We lived on the fat of the land, in the best part of Mississippi, fine hams, and bacon. The corn was burned in the crib as it was ready to ship south to the Confederate Army. John Q. Potter had rheumatism in his shoulders preventing his reenlisting, and he had a detail as a mechanic to refit the Cavalry Corps wagons. 60 wagons and the horses and quarter masters supplies and 50 cases and 5 or 6 ambulances were our train held and burned and all our supplies were lost at Coffeeville, Miss. We had to return minus all supplies, crackers and all. We cut the mules loose from the wagons and gave them to the wounded infantry, and our troops came back to Memphis destitute. John Q. Potter was detailed to go out with 2 helpers and gather up the mules in camps and cities. Our troops could not find 1/5 of them. This ended the active service of Corporal John I. Potter. The rest of the time he worked as a mechanic, and was honorably discharged at the end of 3 years and 9 months.

Potter Family Have Remarkable History

The following article, concerning the Potter family, who have resided in this vicinity for a great number of years, came from the pen of Attorney Jas. S. Gilham:

The people of Red Cloud have been enjoying a visit from one of the pioneers of the county, who has resided elsewhere for the past thirty years. Mr. C. Potter, a brother of Spencer Potter, has been in the city visiting his acquaintances of other days, and recalling the experiences of half a century ago. Mr. Potter came to this county in the winter of 1874 and bought the land upon a part of which James Keagle now resides. He built the then finest house in the county upon his land, and the house remains to the present day. He also built a small store building near the old mill on this side of the river. There was a foot bridge then over the mill dam, and people across the river were greatly accommodated by this store.

Mr. Potter is one of a remarkable family. There were six brothers, of whom five lived for a long time in this vicinity. One brother, the oldest, never came to this county. Two of the brothers, Jacob B., and John Q., came to the county in the year 1873. Jacob Potter settled on Beaver Creek and was a man in general stature and appearance very much like L. B. McKinney, so that many of the old settlers mistook Father McKinney for him. John Q. Potter settled in the village of Red Cloud and established the first saw mill in the county. He and his brother Jacob built the first mill in the county down on the Republican river, south west of the city.

Jacob Potter frequently supplied the country school houses with religious services, being something of a preacher.

John Q. Potter was the founder of the Congregational church in this city, and was for many years the leading singer of the community.

These six brothers were all of unusual size and vitality. Jacob Potter was the largest of the family, while Charles R. was the heaviest. He must have weighed about 250 or 275 pounds in his prime.

All of them lived nearly four score years of age.

Cornelius and Jacob died just before reaching that limit. Isaac died at 84, John Q. nearly reached his 88th anniversary. These were the four eldest. Charles R. and Spencer, who were the two youngest, bid fair to reach a very advanced age, Charles R. is now 89 years old, or will be next week, and Spencer, the baby of the family, will be 86 in May. (He is past 91 this year 1933).

Charles R. and John Q. served in the Civil War the full three years term and Spencer acted as teamster during the conflict. In his young manhood Charles R. Potter heard one of the debates between Douglas and Lincoln at Ottawa, Illinois, traveling 40 miles in a lumber wagon with a crowd of other men. He entertained the school children with many stories of Lincoln and of his service in the army.

Mr. Potter can reckon his descendants like the patriarchs of old, by the score. The last count footed up to 83, and there is no arbitrary limit to a continued increase.

We trust that the two brothers who are now in our presence will reach their hundredth anniversary and we shall be glad to see Charles R. among us frequently during the interval. (He died aged 91).

He lived in Owego, on the Susquehanna river until he was 20 years old. At that time he came west to Illinois. Here in 1860 he was married to Jennie McDougal and the following spring they moved to Grand View, Iowa. There he responded to the needs of his country and enlisted in Co. F of Iowa. He was wounded three times while in service and after recovering so that he could leave the hospital he was sent to Detroit where with a company of soldiers he had charge of the magazines of the Detroit arsenal.

At the close of the war he returned to Iowa and lived near Muscatine until the fall of '75. With the pioneer spirit he came to Red Cloud and settled on the old Indian stockade south of the town on Penny creek. In '79 he moved the family to the Freewater country in Harlan county where he took up a homestead and moved to Wilcox immediately after it became a town.

MANUSCRIPT DRAWN UP BY C. R. POTTER
FOR HIS 90TH BIRTHDAY, MARCH 3, 1929

In the spring of 1879 we moved from the old farm at Red Cloud onto our homestead and timber claim, where we built a little building 16x24 feet. Into this building I put the few goods that I had at Red Cloud and sold goods to the homesteaders there while I was building the house and store. We lived there about four years, until I got able to build the warehouse on the west the full length of the store and a wing on the house, making the entire building 32x54 then.

People who lived in sod houses and dug outs were very much pleased to have a store and warehouse with the capacity of mine and it was very pleasant there. We raised an abundance of hogs, killed about 100 a year and sold to my customers and sold three times as many on an average in market. People used to wonder why we could haul goods clear from Kearney (40 mi.) and sell as cheaply as in the cities of Bloomington, Kearney and Hastings. My argument was that "we were under our own vine and fig tree and hadn't the taxes to pay that people had in cities."

I kept the place at Red Cloud for the timber and used it for posts, rails, wood, and also hauled it to Freewater, where we lived. I sold the rest in Red Cloud where I had a wood yard which Brother Sebra looked after, for me. Then after building the store on the homestead, I stocked it up with everything the people needed, dry goods, groceries, clothing and even had implements, cultivators, wagons, plows, riding plows, everything that the farmer required.

The way Freewater got its name. The freighters themselves named the place. They would stop at Walker's Ranch and consult about where they should stop. At the ranches they had to pay 10c per team and 25c per barrel for water and would have to draw it for themselves from the deep wells. If they went on to John Elliott's sod house they could get water free. John Elliott put down the first well on the prairie. Allen helped put it down and got water from there but the well was on John's place. Then when I built the store I called it the Freewater store and the mail came to the Freewater Post Office, which was conducted for years by John Elliott.

Wilcox started in 1886 and I built a store with bell overhead. The building was 24x54 feet on ground and 22 feet high. I also built my home there. Next I built a mill and elevator, but these burned down a few years later. I re-built the mill, a new structure 30x70, but at that time Wilcox possessing three elevators did not deem it expedient to re-build the elevator. Later I traded the mill for an equity in 5 quarters, or 800 acres of land. Then I moved my hardware store from Wilcox to Ragan and built a general store and lived in the rear of it. In 1896 I sold the Ragan store and goods to Chas. Holmes and then moved onto the farm and went to improving the different farms, buildings, houses and barns. Now they are practically all gone and it seems sometimes to be lonesome for me, because now I am 90 years old and nearly all of the old homesteaders have passed away.

Charles R. Potter

WIFE OF CHARLES POTTER

Jennie McDougal was born in Montreal, Canada on the 8th of April, 1843, and passed away at her home in Alma Monday, February 26th, 1923 at the age of 79 years, 10 months and 18 days. She moved to Illinois in very early childhood, where she with her parents withstood many of the hardships and privations of pioneer life; even to being lost on the Prairie and wandering all night in a cold rain storm. At the age of 18 she was joined in wedlock to Charles R. Potter, of New York, soon after migrating to Iowa where they lived until he went to join the colors in defense of his country.

In his absence she spent a year or two in New York with her husband's family and later joined him at Dearborn Arsenal, Michigan where he was stationed. At the close of the war they returned to Iowa where they lived until August 1875 when they again moved westward and took up pioneer life in Nebraska near Red Cloud, where the Indians roamed up and down the Republican Valley and often visited their home which was an old Indian Stockade of that region.

Saratoga Co. N. Y. Records

As you state in your letter that Laurence Barber died 1816 I am quite sure you have not the enclosed material. There seems to be several clues to follow out, Who was Silas Dibblet, evidently related to Anna, and by the Dibble record you will see he signed bond on estate of Tompkins Dibble, who was a soldier, probably in the war of 1812, I presume you could get some record of him in the pension office at Washington.

From the fact there is a military hat, coat and sword mentioned in the inventory of Laurence Barber personal property, it is possible you may also be able to get some records of him in the pension office.

Copy from article written by Harriet McConnell on Early Days in Richmond, Ill.

"Abram Bodine McConnell was married at Richmond, Ill. Feb. 23, 1851 to Harriet Susan Potter born at Ft. Ann, Washington Co., New York, daughter of Stephen Porter Potter and Charity Barber Potter. Her father, Stephen Potter, was of old New England stock, his ancestry coming into New England with the Puritan emigrants. Both the Porters and Potter were of English descent.

David Allen Potter, the grandfather of Mrs. A. B. McConnell married Polly Barker, a daughter of a Revolutionary Soldier, who died in the service of his country. He was a pioneer farmer of Fort Ann, N. Y. where he lived on his farm until his death at the venerable age of over eighty years. He was many years a deacon in the Baptist church.

Stephen Porter Potter was born at Ft. Ann, N. Y. 1803. He was a carpenter and joiner by trade. He married at Ft. Ann, Charity Barker, daughter of James Barker, a school teacher and son of a Revolutionary Soldier.

Luther A. Kellogg Born Jan. 28th, 1846. Served as a Union soldier in the 137th Regt. N. Y. Volunteers from the 18th day of August 1862 until the close of the war. Was in the battle of Chancellorsville, Va. and at Gettysburg, Pa., at that time being 17 years old.

Immediately after the close of the Gettysburg campaign the Corps of which he was a member was transferred to Western or Southwestern Dept. Was engaged in the battle of Wauhatchie Valley, Oct. 28th and was one of those who charged up Lookout Mountain, Nov. 24th of the same year under fighting Joe Hooker. The rebels being driven off Lookout Mountain took refuge on Missionary Ridge another mountain, and the following day, being driven from that stronghold, they retreated to Ringgold, Ga. where after a fine engagement, they were whipped and scattered in all directions. Started the following spring in May 1864 on what is now known as "Sherman's March to the sea", fighting more or less every day and with the exception of a bullet scratch at Peachtree, Ga., escaped unhurt and was discharged at Elmira, N. Y. at the close of the war.

FIFTEENTH ANNUAL
POTTER REUNION

1933

On Sunday, July 2nd, at Franklin Park, Southern Nebraska, 95 members of the C. R., S. F., and C. S. Potter descendants gathered for a picnic and the usual good time. The weather was fine and the cooler air of the night before encouraged attendance as well as did the memories of former good times.

The honor guest of the occasion was S. M. Potter, age 91, of Red Cloud who was present with his children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herrick and son, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Potter with their children and grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hutchison, also of Red Cloud, were present at the affair.

Others in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hutchison of Scottsbluff, Mrs. Stella Hutchison and daughter, Winifred, of Lincoln, Mrs. Grace Furinton and children, and their friend, Miss Grace Johnson, of Cambridge, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Potter of Ames, Iowa, Mrs. Althea Stevens of Atlanta, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Potter and family of Alma, including their children, Mr. and Mrs. Delmond Faeh and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meyers and sons of Wilcox, and Mrs. Leonard Ogden and son of Omaha.

E. L. Potter and children, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sechler, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Black, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Termin of Egan, and grandchildren, Carol and Junior Termin, and Mr. and Mrs. Claren Berggren and son of Wilcox attended the reunion. Miss Velda Clifford of Egan was a guest of the Berggrens.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Potter of Wilcox were present with 3 of their children, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zulauf and family, and their guest, E. Scott Wischmeier of Lewistown, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Potter and family, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Drishaus of Ashland.

There were other friends including Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weston and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hadden with their daughters, Ruth and Idella, and grandson, Kelvin Aerhart, all of Wilcox, and the W. E., M. E., and J. A. Hartmans, and C. A. and J. H. Kudrna families from Red Cloud.

A bit of information which might be interesting is that Grandfather Hartman was the first man to obtain grist from the Red Cloud mill which was run by John Q. Potter in 1872.

The company assembled and had a table spread for a cafeteria dinner at one o'clock.

Following the dinner a business session was called to order by E. C. Potter of Ames, Iowa, who gave a brief resume of the Potter family. It was then voted to organize as the "Potter Family Association". The motion was put by S. M. Potter and seconded by E. R. Potter. The motion was carried. The following officers were elected:-- President, E. R. Potter; 1st vicepresident, C. F. Hutchison; 2nd vicepresident, C. C. Potter; secretary, Leah Potter Drishaus.

It was next moved by Edna Hutchison that the reunion be held at the Wilcox Park and Mrs. Althea Stevens seconded the motion. Motion was carried.

A motion for adjournment was made by E. R. Potter.

After the business meeting some of the group went for a dip in the swimming pool, others to enjoy a game of ball, while still others spent the remainder of the afternoon visiting. The party broke up about 5:30 after a very enjoyable time together and looking forward to another such reunion in 1934.

Potter Pioneers

With the early settlers of New England, Nathaniel Potter came in 1638 from Old England to Rhode Island as the first ancestor in this country in the lineage herein recorded. His descendants are recorded in the Potter genealogy published by Edward Potter in Boston in 1888. In this genealogy the record on our line stopped with the mention of Eseck Potter (1776-1865) and his brothers John and Job.

The descendants of Eseck Potter, so far as is known to the author, have been recorded in this book, a numerous company with many large families. Included are nearly 600 direct descendants and nearly 400 persons married into the family. There may be as many more; and it is certain that many are not here accounted for.

The generations from Nathaniel to Eseck moved westward in true pioneer fashion and we find the active life of Eseck and Sarah Stoddard Potter in Gallupville, near Albany, New York. They had 13 children, all of whom had large families. The grandchildren of Eseck and Sarah numbered close to eighty.

Eseck, outstandingly athletic, was Sheriff and ran down on foot the men subject to arrest. One fugitive who outran and escaped Eseck so humiliated him that he announced he would resign from his office if it happened again. He was an adept wrestler, on one occasion throwing a man over his head and breaking his hip. Eseck refused thereafter to wrestle but while in his 80's he chopped and split wood to show the younger generation he was still fit. A grandson, a grown man, Spencer Nathaniel Potter, declared that, "If Eseck wasn't so old he'd take him on for a wrestle". Whereupon Eseck said, "Take your hold," and "Are you ready?". Instantly the grandson was sprawled on the ground. He jumped up, saying, "You can't do that again", but Grandfather Eseck repeated the feat.

On one occasion, Eseck as Sheriff traced a thief to a house, one room of which the occupants would not permit him to enter. Eseck put his shoulder to the door and found it held from the other side. With a surge he lifted the door from its wooden pins, and in falling the door went over the fugitive's head and he clinched him prisoner. Eseck also was assessor and tax collector for the government. Returning one night on horseback with money he had collected, he was waylaid by a bandit in a deep woods. The bandit grabbed the horse's bridle. Eseck thrust out his hand, snapping the switch he carried with such a sharp report that the bandit thought he was cocking a pistol and fled.

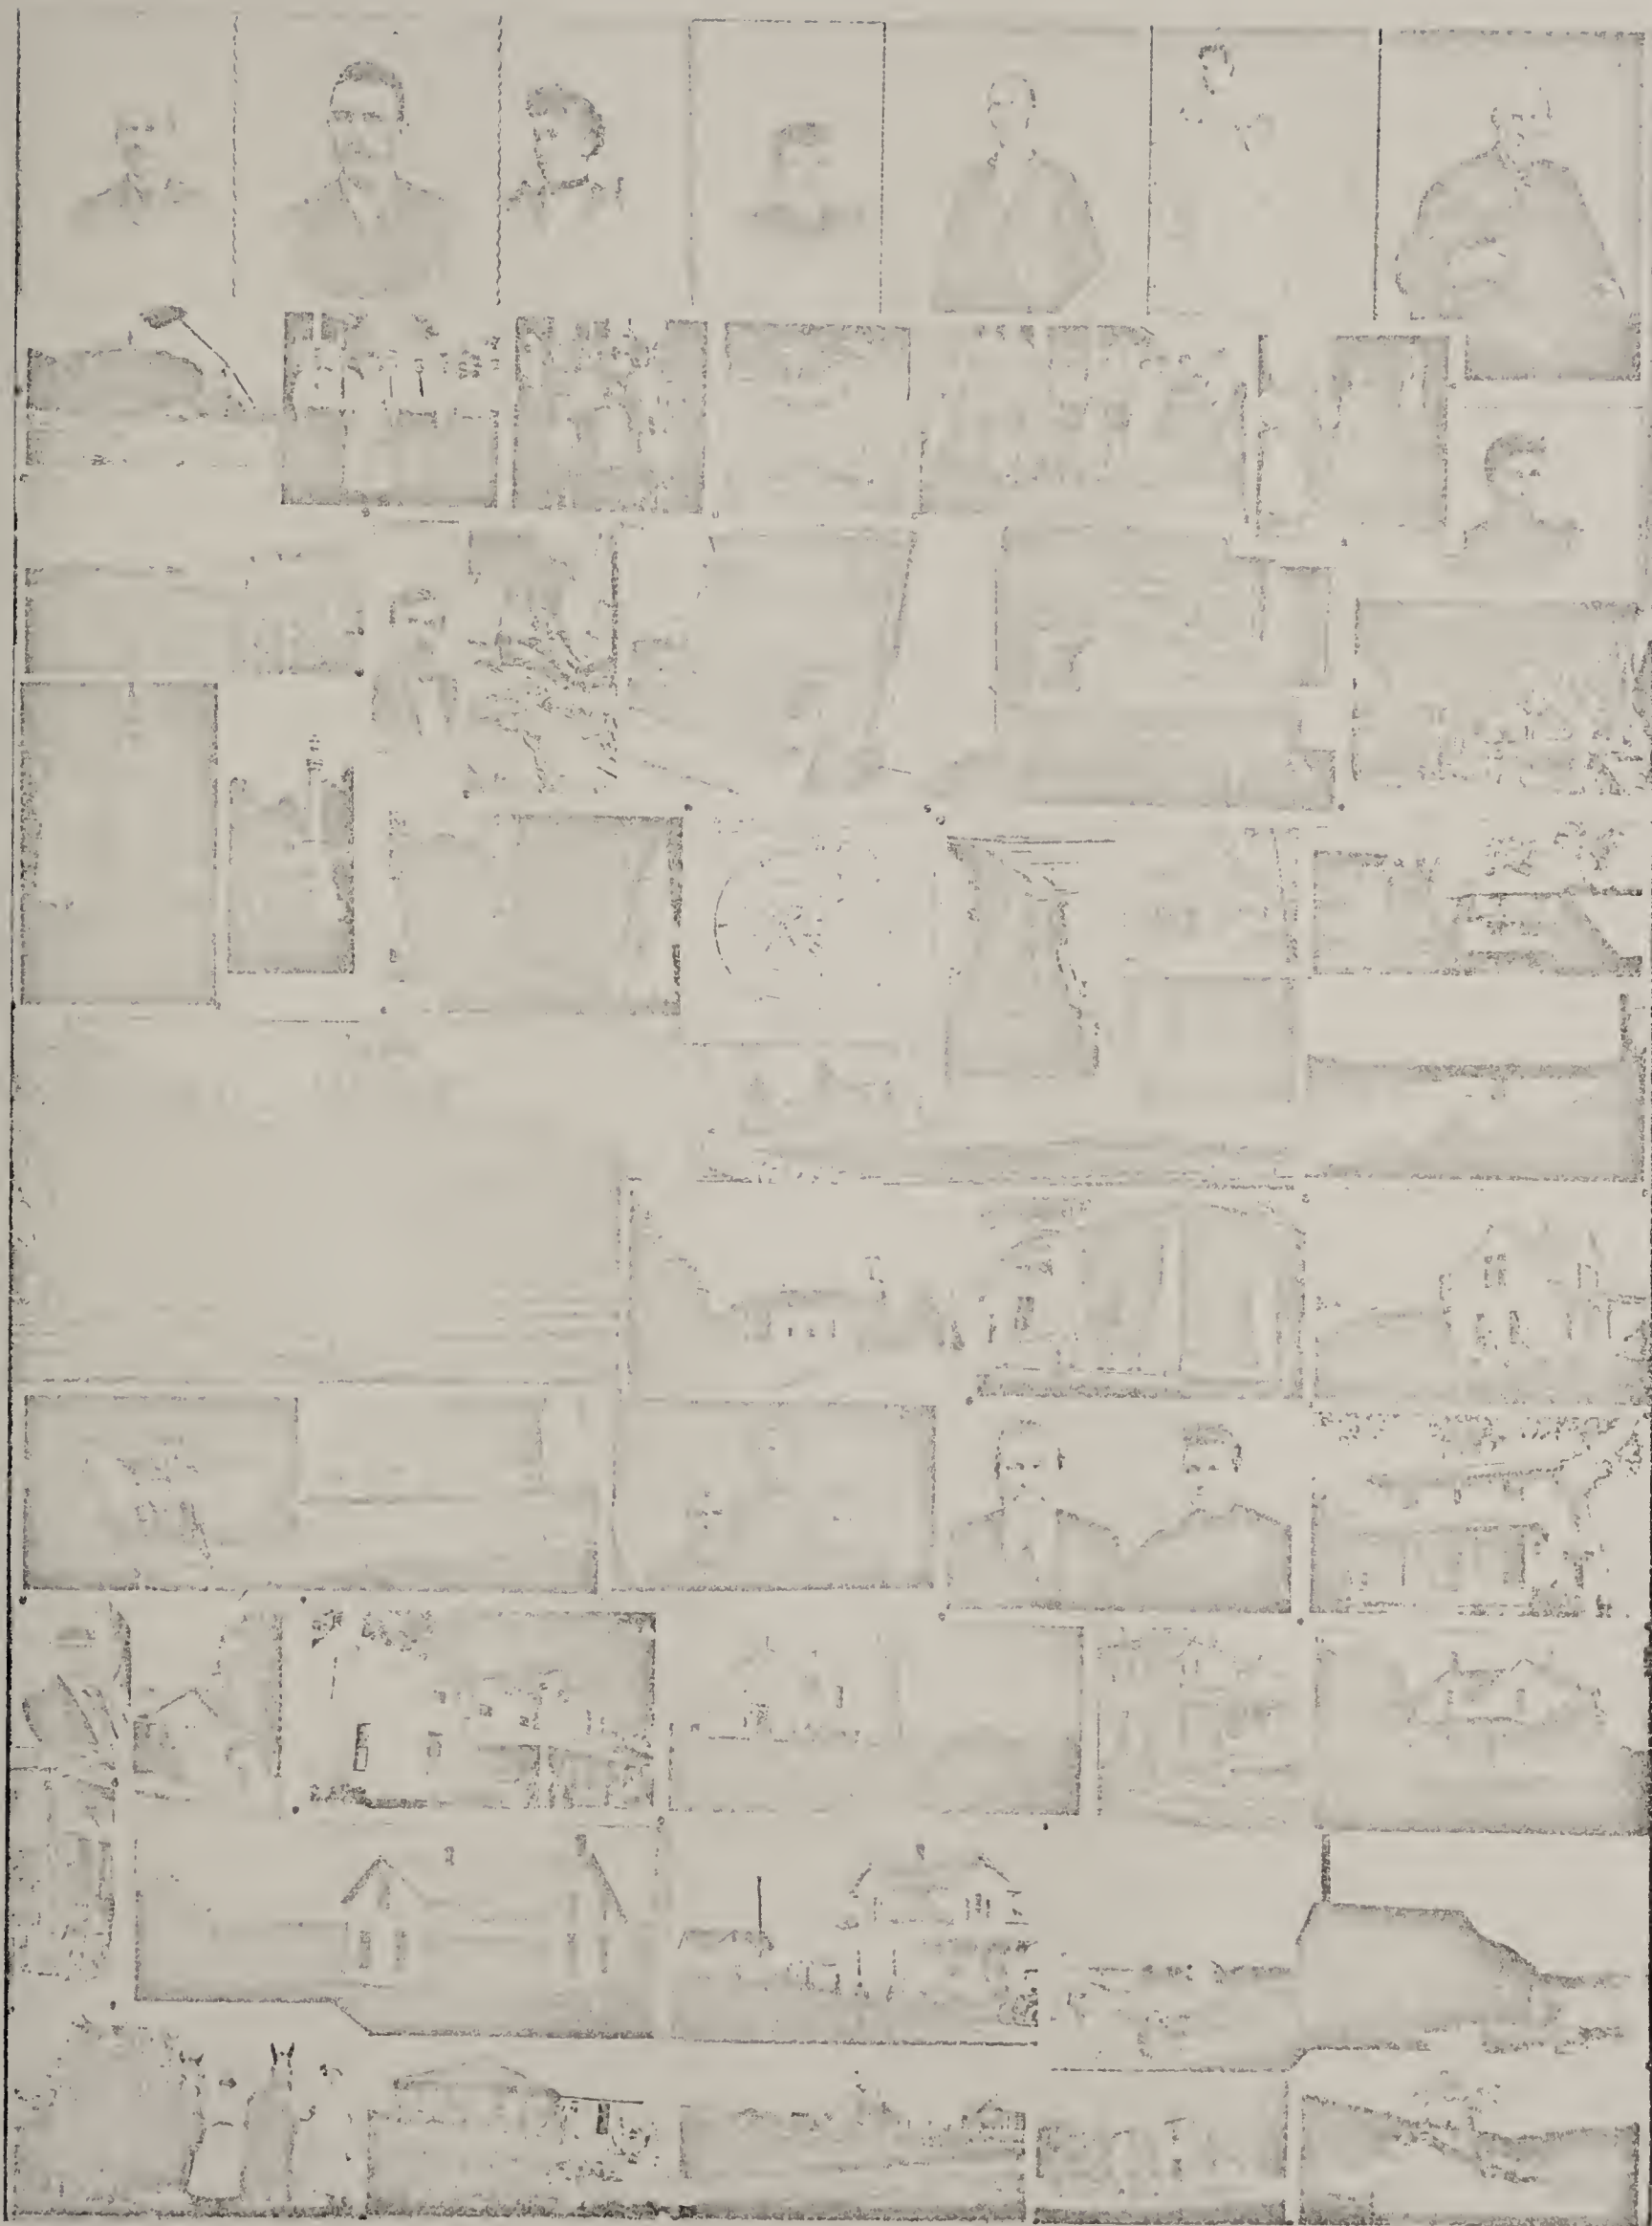

Eseck and Sarah were buried at Oneonta, N. Y. on the bank of the beautiful Susquehanna river whose valley was the pioneer field for many descendants. Westward to Owego, N. Y. they came as farmers and mill men. Cornelius, Eseck's son, raised a large family. He owned a saw mill and grist mill and tannery at Newark Valley and a furniture factory east of Owego. His sons came to eastern Iowa and operated a saw and grist mill at Grandview, south of Muscatine. Four of them served in the Civil War: John Q. and Charles R. in the army, Cornelius S. and Spencer M. as carpenters for the government. They came to Nebraska about 1870 pioneering as had their ancestors for 250 years.

John Q. Potter helped build churches and organize Sunday schools over the state of Nebraska working with Newell Dwight Hillis who afterward became a famous Brooklyn, N. Y. minister. John Q. also built mills, first on the little Blue river and later at Red Cloud, Amboy and Guide Rock. He appreciated the value of family records and gave the author a cherished record book of his grandparents, Eseck and Sarah Potter, spending considerable effort in getting these records filled out.

Charles R. Potter settled on Penny Creek, in the 1870's, southwest of Red Cloud. He had a store near the John Potter and Frisbie mills, later moving to a new settlement, New Prairie, west of Wilcox. He had stores and mills here and one at Mitchell. Eighty or more of his descendants are now (in 1933) at Wilcox, Alma and Morrell. C. R. had double teeth in front, still good at his death when past 91.

Spencer M. settled on school land in Kansas, south of Red Cloud. His son, C. C. Potter, and 9 children and several grandchildren are there now. The country then bristled with buffalo bones which were legal tender in trade. Sod houses were the rule. One daughter, Mellie York, lived farther west at Bird City, Kansas. John Q. later lived in Los Angeles, as does a grandson of C. S. Jacob Potter and family lived at Medical Lake, Washington, where at one time he was a lay preacher. He and his wife died there and his children and grandchildren live there yet.

All honor and praise to the Potter Pioneers!

HILLS OF HOME

I've wandered far along life's way
 In meadow land abloom,
 Beyond the sea that carried me
 To far flung isles perfume.
 I've trod the hills where beauty calls,
 And far inland I roam,
 Yet in my soul I'd make the goal
 Of dear old hills of home.

High hills I've seen and on them been
 And looked across the sea,
 I've seen the herds and strange wild birds
 That dwell there strong and free,
 I've journeyed long and heard the song
 Of thrushes in the gloom
 That brought to me so earnestly
 The high green hills of home.

The night falls deep, love calls to sleep
 And visions to me come,
 Aye, visions of those carefree days
 With childhood life and drum.
 When marching forth we faced the north
 And played in gathered gloom,
 The notes that echoed in the hills --
 The wooded hills of home.

Then take me back along the track
 Of stones and hillside road,
 Where I may lay my burden down
 And lighten all life's load.
 And hear the rills among the hills
 Whose ripples bid me come
 To high green hills, the velvet hills,
 The sheltered hills of home.

And when the sun shall light the run
 Where fishes gleam and play,
 I'll bring my heart to be a part
 Of green hills by the way.
 Where home and love and cooing dove
 With me no more shall roam,
 And my last sigh is that I die
 In the loved hills of home.

The Sea of the Soul

One ship drives east, another drives west,
While the same breeze blows,
That sets the sails, and sets the gales,
That bids them where to go.
Like the winds of the sea, are the ways of the sailor.
As we voyage along through life,
Tis the sea of soul, that decides the goal,
And not the storm or the strife.

Clyde W. Tombaugh, born February 4, 1906, is the oldest child of Muron and Adella Pearl Tombaugh. Clyde W. Tombaugh is the discoverer of the ninth planet of our Solar System. As this is an historical event, certain facts not heretofore published, will be mentioned here. About 1880, a course of lectures was given at the Christian Church at Vanceville, Washington County, Pa. One of the lecturers was a man of local note as an educator, Hon. John C. Messenger, who chose the subject of astronomy on which to lecture. The writer, then in his early twenties, was sufficiently interested in the lecture that he secured a star chart and succeeded in locating a few constellations and fixed stars. While engaged at this pastime he was visited by Leon Tombaugh, an uncle of Clyde W. Tombaugh.

Leon Tombaugh, and the writer, for some time amused themselves with star gazing together, little dreaming that their pastime would be a factor that would eventually lead in time to the most spectacular event in astronomical circles for many years.

Upon returning to his home in Illinois, Leon and his brother, Muron, father of Clyde, continued to study astronomy and years later imparted what they had learned of the subject to Clyde W. Tombaugh. He became fascinated with the study and to assist his efforts he built several telescopes, one of nine-inch object glass. His unusual success becoming known, he secured a position at the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona.

Many years ago Prof. Percival Lowell had predicted the discovery of a new planet and had mapped a band across the heavens wherein it would be found. To Clyde W. Tombaugh fell the task of photographing the stars within this band. After photographing the stars about half way around the zenith, along in January, 1930, he noticed a strange appearance on the photographic plate. A careful examination, and later observations, proved that it was the long sought for ninth planet. From the foremost learned bodies Clyde W. Tombaugh received congratulations for his discovery. He is the first and only American who ever found a planet.

He is one of three men of modern times who have first seen planets: Uranus, by Herschel; Neptune, by Galley; and Pluto, the name at this writing we understand, they have given the new planet by Tombaugh.

It is probable that all the planets, except the above three, were known when the Egyptian pyramids were built.

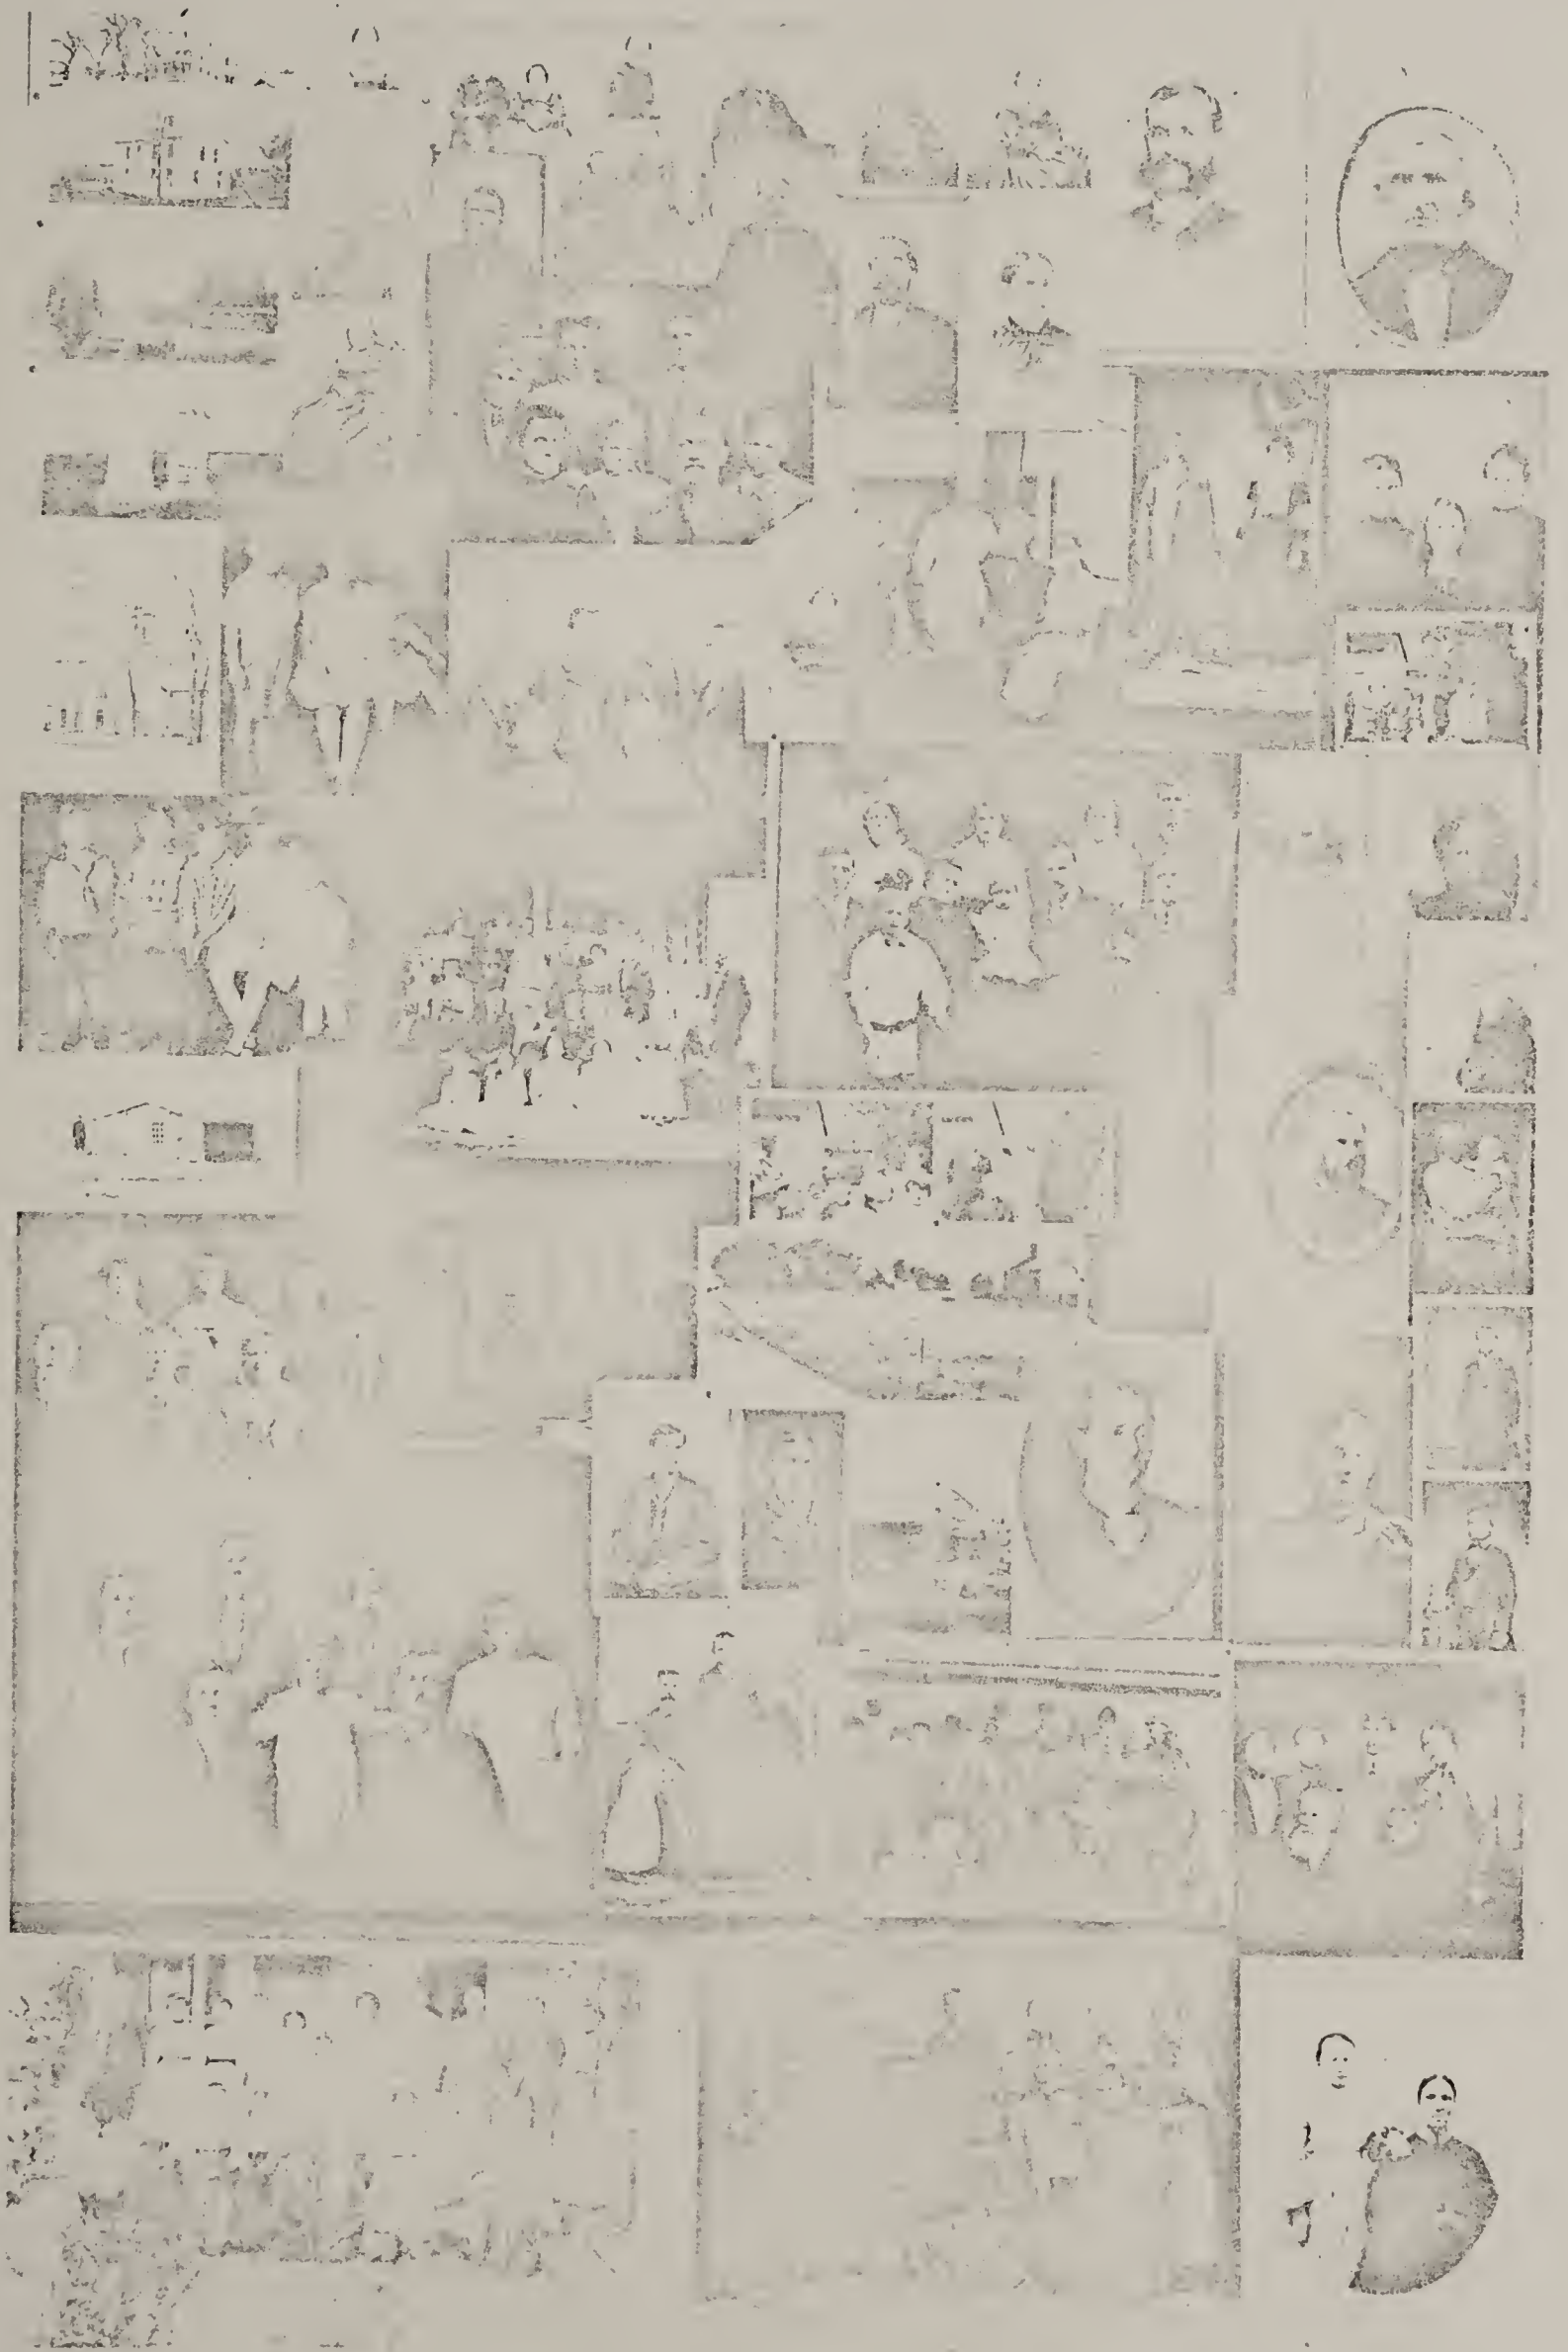

Clyde W. Tombaugh even more deserves the credit for the discovery of a planet than did Herschel or Galley, as Uranus can be seen at times by the naked eye, and Prof. John Galley was told by other astronomers, within a degree, where he would sight his glass to find Neptune, while Tombaugh's search was only indicated by a band extending entirely around zenith.

Revolutionary Record of Eseck Potter, Sr.
